COMPANY PROFILE

PT. ZAINI MAKMUR SENTOSA

ABOUT US

PT. Zaini Makmur Sentosa (ZAMASTA) is an Indonesian agribusiness and agricultural technology company dedicated to strengthening food security through science-driven, farmer-centric solutions.

Founded in 2012, ZAMASTA focuses on development, processing, and distribution of paddy, corn, and selected horticultural seeds, supported by plant nutrition, crop protection, and farming solutions. We operate across the agricultural value chain-connecting research, production, farmers, and markets-so that innovation does not stay in laboratories, but works in real fields.

Our team brings more than 30 years of combined experience in agricultural inputs and farming operations. We began as a trusted distributor for leading corn seed companies in East Java, before evolving into a fully integrated agribusiness with our own processing facilities and R&D capabilities.

In 2016 and 2018, ZAMASTA actively supported the Indonesian Government through participation in the National Food Security Program, distributing corn seeds to farmers across key production regions.

As our market expanded, in early 2020 we invested in our own processing and farming facilities to ensure sustainability, quality control, and long-term supply reliability. Today, ZAMASTA focuses on building a resilient agricultural ecosystem, linking farmers, partners, and markets through mutual value creation, disciplined processes, and best practices.

We believe agriculture thrives when productivity, profitability, and sustainability grow together.
